

Survey on Living with Chronic Diseases in Canada, 2014

Released at 8:30 a.m. Eastern time in The Daily, Thursday, October 30, 2014

Data from the 2014 Survey on Living with Chronic Diseases in Canada are now available upon request.

The objective of the survey (sponsored by the Public Health Agency of Canada) was to assess the impact of mood and anxiety disorders on quality of life and to provide more information on how Canadians manage their chronic condition.

Data were collected from October 2013 until March 2014. Approximately 3,400 individuals aged 18 years and older residing in households in the 10 provinces were interviewed.

Definitions, data sources and methods: survey number 5160.
