

Long-term Care Facilities Survey, 2013

Released at 8:30 a.m. Eastern time in The Daily, Monday, May 4, 2015

For the reference year April 1, 2013 to March 31, 2014, there were 1,519 long-term care facilities in Canada serving 149,488 residents.

During this time, the industry generated revenues of $10.9 billion and expenses of $10.8 billion, of which $7.2 billion were wages and salaries. This corresponded to a profit margin of $154.2 million or 1.4% of total revenues.

Note to readers

The Long-Term Care Facilities Survey (sponsored by the Canadian Institute for Health Information) collects data on non-acute health care facilities with four or more beds that provide medical or professional nursing supervision or some higher level of care to residents but are not part of a hospital.

This information contributes to an understanding of the health sector and its relative input to the economy. The survey is a census of these facilities in all provinces and territories in Canada, excluding Quebec.

Definitions, data sources and methods: survey number 5203.
