

Aboriginal Peoples Survey: Public use microdata file, 2017

Released at 8:30 a.m. Eastern time in The Daily, Tuesday, June 2, 2020

Today, Statistics Canada is releasing the public use microdata file for the 2017 Aboriginal Peoples Survey (APS). This file contains data for a wide variety of variables collected from the 2017 APS.

The APS is a national survey on the social and economic conditions of Aboriginal peoples (First Nations people living off reserve, Métis and Inuit) aged 15 years and older. The 2017 APS represents the fifth cycle of the survey and focuses on transferable skills, practical training, use of information technology, knowledge of an Aboriginal language, and participation in the Canadian economy.

Note to readers

A user guide and data dictionary are also available with the Aboriginal Peoples Survey (APS) public use microdata file.

The APS is conducted every five years.

Definitions, data sources and methods: survey number 3250.

The product "Aboriginal Peoples Survey, 2017: Public Use Microdata File" (89-653-X), along with extensive documentation including a user guide and a data dictionary, is now available upon request.
